Section 1. Origin And Name

This Guild is named the Stuart D. Cook, MD Master Educators’ Guild. (Hereafter referred to as “the Guild”.) The title “Master Educator” is conferred on an individual to recognize outstanding contributions to education in any School and at any level of the educational process. Individuals are nominated by their respective Schools according to criteria developed by those Schools. To be designated a “Master Educator” confers membership in the Guild, whose functions, described herein, promote the educational mission of the University. Membership in the Guild is for a time established in these Bylaws and is conditional on participation in Guild activities. The title “Master Educator” is a permanent designation independent of membership status in the Guild.

The Guild and its members may initiate or promote curricular and faculty development, new educational programs, individual or collaborative educational research, scholarship and innovative methods of teaching, which are subject to the authority and control of the President of UMDNJ or his or her designee and in accord with the bylaws of the University.

Excellence may be demonstrated in any instructional setting including classroom instruction, hospital or clinic teaching, laboratory instruction, research mentoring and instruction, continuing education, community-based instructional settings or electronically mediated teaching and learning.
